

A SOCIAL NARRATIVE

NDIS & THERAPY SERIES

A School-Based Therapy Session

Sometimes a therapist visits Amina at school instead of at a clinic.

The same therapist usually visits, and it's often the same room at school.

Some sessions happen in the classroom. Some happen in a quieter room set aside for the visit. It depends on the school.

Rough plan: Amina gets called out of class, does the session with the therapist, then goes back to class.

Missing part of a class activity to do the session can feel like a lot sometimes.

Sometimes the session is at the same time each visit. Sometimes it moves around the timetable. Both happen.

If it feels like too much, Amina can ask the therapist for a short break during the session.

The session ends, and Amina goes back to the rest of the school day.
